

14TH ANNUAL BEST PLACES TO LIVE...

denver life

Colorado's leading lifestyle magazine

Our HAPPY PLACE

From arts & culture to dining & shopping—we cover all the bases when it comes to what's hot in the Mile High City.

REAL ESTATE

Most desirable places to live and work in Denver and why people can't get enough. PG. 81

MARCH 2021

PLEASE DISPLAY UNTIL 04.05.2021 $4.95

denverlifemagazine.com

NO-FUSS FASHION

Global women's clothing brand MarlaWynne sets up shop in Denver, the owner's hometown.

DESIGNER'S TOUCH

The boutique design firm River and Lime creates the right balance of comfort and luxury.

ALTITUDE TRAINING

Denver's newest gym provides unique fitness programs for the outdoor adventure enthusiast.

DOWNTOWN GETAWAY

Hotel Teatro's renovated, modern experience perfectly complements its historic setting.

taste

ROASTED ORGANIC BUTTERNUT SQUASH SOUP Its simple combination of roasted ingredients makes this dish an easy weeknight meal. The subtle flavor additions of nutmeg cream and toasted almonds elevate each bowl to a dish worth coming back to again and again. For the recipe, see page 119 in the book.

EDIT: KERRIE LEE BROWN | PHOTOGRAPHY: CHRISTINA KIFFNEY

A Bite of Boulder

A Bite of Boulder harbors a collection of more than 40 recipes from Boulder's favorite restaurants, and includes stories of the dishes and the people behind them. "Food truly is love, so dig in at home, share favorites with friends, and celebrate Boulder in a delicious new way," says author and owner of First Bite, Jessica Benjamin. A Bite of Boulder keeps you connected to the foothills' dining community, featuring highlights on wine, cheese, and spices. Its pages also hold kitchen tips, explorations into the future of our food system, and featured stories from local industry personalities: "When Chef Roy Benningfield [of SALT] sent me this Butternut Squash Soup recipe, I was very excited," says Benjamin. "He shared that it was a guest-favorite recipe, and an obviously soul-warming dish." Fifty percent of the book's proceeds go toward participating restaurants in an effort to further fortify Boulder's flourishing food community.

firstbiteboulder.com